

Dear Retailer,

Guidecraft Inc. prides itself on 40 years of manufacturing quality products that put children and safety first. To fulfill our mission, we engage in both regular and periodic testing of our products to affirm compliance with standards that meet or exceed safety regulations mandated by the Consumer Product Safety Commission, as outlined in ASTM F963, Standard Consumer Safety Specification for Toy Safety, which covers children's toys and furniture.

We recognize that certain product components, such as paint and magnets, manufactured in China, have come under increased scrutiny recently due to recalls by other manufacturers. At Guidecraft we continue to evaluate our product testing protocol in light of all information available, to ensure that we are implementing industry recognized precautions to identify any product safety issues. Should you require copies of test reports for either magnetic toys or our paint content, please contact our Product Safety group at productsafety@guidecraft.com.

We assure you that we will continue to make it our mission to put children and safety first.

Sincerely,

Jason L. Fein
